

gt.
Tappan Pious Assoc
2-15-32

CONTENTS
OF THE
QUARTERLY CHRISTIAN SPECTATOR.
VOL. VI.—1834.

No. I.

PAGE.

ART. I. Episcopacy Tested by Scripture, - - -	1
II. Means enjoyed by this Country for Promoting the Highest Interests of Mankind, - - -	36
III. The Hand, its Mechanism, and Vital Endowments, as evincing Design, - - -	54
IV. Eternity Realized, - - -	73
V. Memoirs of Rev. George Whitefield, - -	88
VI. Fanaticism, - - -	118
VII. Mitchell's Young Christian's Guide, - -	140
VIII. On the Biblical Use of the word Son, - -	156
IX. Miriam, - - -	160

No. II.

ART. I. Spirit and Influence of the Reformation, - -	169
II. Sketches of the Life and Character of Rev. Gilbert R. Livingston, D. D. - - -	187
III. The Influence of the Christian Religion on Poetry,	196
IV. Spiritual Songs for Social Worship, - - -	208
V. The Character and Writings of Edmund Burke,	226
VI. On Efficacious Prayer, - - -	250
VII. Winslow on the Doctrine of the Trinity, - -	259
VIII. Philip on Manly Piety, - - -	267
IX. Memoirs of Baron Cuvier, - - -	291
X. Memoir of Rev. Elias Cornelius, - - -	308
XI. The Abolition of Slavery, - - -	332

	No. III.	PAGE.
ART. I. Report of the Board of Visitors of the United States'
Military Academy, - - - - -		345
✓ II. The Philosophy and Influence of Habit, in its Relations to Intemperance, - - - - -		371
III. A Memoir of Miss Mary Jane Graham, - - - - -		381
IV. Moral Science, - - - - -		406
V. Life of the Rev. Rowland Hill, - - - - -		426
VI. Mrs. Child's Appeal in favor of the Africans, - - - - -		445
VII. Memoirs of Baron Cuvier, - - - - -		456
VIII. Sketch of the Life and Character of the Rev. Luther Hart, - - - - -		476
IX. Phrenology, - - - - -		497
X. German Neology, - - - - -		509

No. IV.

ART. I. Claims of the West, - - - - -	513
II. Phrenology, - - - - -	525
III. The Power of Holiness in the Christian Ministry, - - - - -	542
IV. On Moral Science, as a branch of Academical Education, - - - - -	561
V. The Sabbath, - - - - -	580
VI. Seventh Report of the American Temperance Society, - - - - -	593
VII. The Present State of Metaphysics, - - - - -	609
VIII. General Improvement of Society, - - - - -	632
IX. Memoirs of Hannah More, - - - - -	655

ERRATA.

The following errors, in the present number, escaped notice till too late for correction in the press, viz.—

Page 565, line 6 from the bottom, for production, read productive.

“ 618, line 4 “ “ for story, read sting.

“ 618, line 5 “ “ for pretty, read petty.

“ 619, line 7 from the top, for truisms, read tuisms.

Also the omission of accents in the Greek sentence on page 615.

In the number for June, page 169, for 1833, read 1834.

Page 296, line 22 from the top, for His plan, read This place.

In the number for Sept. page 459, line 19 from bottom, for dasguri, read dasyuri.
 “ “ “ 18 “ for peramcles, read perameles.

INDEX

TO THE SIXTH VOLUME OF THE QUARTERLY CHRISTIAN SPECTATOR.

- ABOLITION of Slavery, 332: meaning of terms, 333-339.
- Academy, U. S. Military,—Report of the Board of Visitors of the, 345: its relations, military, academical, moral, and religious, 346-380: its design, military, 348: standard of scholarship high, 353: deficient in moral and religious instruction, state of morals, 358: infidelity prevalent in, 361: duties respecting it, 362.
- Adaptation of the body to the intelligence, instincts and wants of the individual, 58.
- Africans,—Mrs. Child's appeal in favor of the, 445.
- American Temperance Society,—Seventh Report of the, 593.
- Animals,—Cuvier's distinction of from plants, 298: his classification of, 301: vertebrated, its four classes, 304, 305: orders of mammalia described, 306: Animal body, its functions, 209.
- Anti-Slavery Society,—their definition of slavery and emancipation, extracts, 333.
- Apostles,—not chosen for the distinctive and peculiar work of ordaining, 10: but as original witnesses, 12.
- Ardent Spirits,—traffic in, sinful and immoral,—ought to be a penal offense, 606, 607.
- Barham, Lord,—his regard for the sabbath, 440.
- Bell, Sir Charles,—his Bridgewater Treatise on the Hand, 54.
- Benevolence,—circumstances favorable or unfavorable to, at the West, 516, 517.
- Biblical use of the word Son, 156-159.
- Brain,—dependence of the mind upon it for its exercise, 506: a congeries of organs, 525-528: size of its organs the measure of its power,—in what sense true, 529: difficulties in determining its organs, objections, 536-541.
- Burke, Edmund,—character and writings of, 226: a serious man, 227: had a sacred regard for his opinions, 228: his lamentation on the loss of his son, extract, 229: his intellect, philosophical, reflecting rather than speculative, 234, 237: not an orator for the people, 238: social and domestic character, 243: value of his writings, 244-247.
- Child, Mrs.,—Appeal in favor of the Africans, 445: unfair view of prejudices against people of color exposed, 446-450: statements respecting colonizationists corrected, 451-456.
- Christian ministry, power of holiness in the, 542.
— religion, influence of, on poetry, 196-208.
- Christians, excuses of, for neglecting the contemplation of eternity, etc. 77-80: reasons of their remissness in this duty,—want of self-denial, of assurance of hope, 80-83: mistaken views with regard to excited religious feeling, 139: violations of the sabbath by, 588.
- Church, instrumentality of the, in the conversion of the world, 559.
- Claims of the West, 513-524.
- Combe, George and Andrew, works on phrenology, 497-501.
- Colleges, needed at the West, 522, 523.
- Coleridge, S. T.—his character as a poet, philosopher, etc. 617-629: demands of his readers, a voluntary production of consciousness, 618: philosophical opinions not derived from Plato, or the English Platonists, but from Kant, etc. 619, 620: his distinction between reason and understanding considered, 621-624: his views on inductive reasoning, 626: obscurity of his philosophical writings, 627, 628.
- Competency of reason, how limited, 260.
- Conscience,—Dymond's view of its nature and authority, 412.
- Cornelius, Rev. Elias,—memoir of, 308-331: his early life, and his conversion in college, 312: Agent of the A. B. C. F. M. at the south, his success, 315: col-

- league with Dr. Worcester, 316: secretary of American Education Society, intercourse with the beneficiaries, spirit and discharge of duty in this office, 316-319: secretary of Presbyterian Education Society, and corresponding secretary of the A. B. C. F. M., 320: his character in social and domestic life, 321-323: as a public agent, 324, 325: intellectual, religious and pastoral character, 326-328.
- Cuvier, Baron,—memoir of, 291: his early life and proficiency, 292-295: honors conferred upon him, 296: his great work, The Animal Kingdom, described, 299-308: sensation and motion the grounds of his system, 300: his Fossil Anatomy described, 458-460: Eulogy on Priestly, and extracts, 463, 464: Lectures on the progress and history of the natural sciences, 466-470: his private history, loss of his daughter, his character in social life, etc. 470-474.
- Cuyler, Rev. Dr.—his discourse on the death of Dr. G. R. Livingston, 187.
- Depravity,—a state of the will itself, an inordinate love of self, 144.
- Dick, Thomas, LL. D.—on the general improvement of society, 632: character of his work, 638.
- Divine Influence,—manly views of, 286.
- Sovereignty and Election, 151-153.
- Doctrinal Truths, of great practical importance, 141: the foundation of right affections, the reasons of precepts, 142: influence of, on the intellectual powers, 143.
- Drunkard,—reason why his reformation is so difficult, 375.
- Dymond,—his Essay on Morality, etc. 406: his views of expediency, 410: of conscience, 412: on insolvency and bankruptcy, 415, 416: of slavery, 418: of litigation, 421: of promises, etc. 422.
- Education, academical,—moral science as a branch of, 561.
- Efficacious prayer, 250: idea of objections answered, 253-256.
- Efforts of religion upon the advancement of knowledge, 649-654.
- Emancipation, Immediate,—meaning of, by Anti-Slavery Convention, extract, 334: by Rev. A. A. Phelps, 338: by Anti-Slavery Society in Lane Seminary, 336: Dymond's views of, 418.
- Emigrants to the West,—character of those needed, 524: number of, who have landed at Quebec, etc.,—effect on this country, 583.
- Episcopacy tested by scripture, 1-36: origin and character of this tract, 1: outline of Dr. Onderdonk's argument, 5-7: burden of proof lies on Episcopalians, 7: their claims, 8, 9: the argument examined and refuted, 10-33.
- Eternity Realized, 73-88: nature and importance of eternity and eternal things, 74-77: excuses of christians for neglecting them considered, 77-80: Reasons of their remissness in this duty, 80-83.
- Expediency,—the doctrine of, Dymond's objection to, 410: may be a subordinate rule, 411.
- Fanaticism, 118-140: author's definition of, 121: the offspring of enthusiasm, 129: varieties, 131: rise and progress of the malign emotions in, 121-126.
- Female Character,—to be formed by a union of cultivated intellect and taste with fervent piety, 393.
- Fossil Anatomy,—Cuvier's, described, 458-460.
- Graham, Miss Mary Jane,—memoirs of, 381: her early conversion, 282: apostasy, 383-385: her return to God, 386: studies and pursuits, 388-391: illness and death, 392, 393: her intellectual and spiritual character, 394-396.
- Habit,—Philosophy and Influence of, with relation to intemperance, 370.
- Hand,—Mechanism and Vital Endowments of the, 54-73.
- Hart, Rev. Luther,—Sketch of his Life and Character, 470: early life, conversion, his college life, 475-479: his character as a man, an author, preacher, pastor, and his success, 479: author of a Doctrinal tract on Presbyterian Ordination, 486: articles furnished by him to the Christian Spectator, 489: favors New-Haven Theology, 492: his death, etc. 494.
- Heaven, realizing views of,—how obtained, 83-87: an end of suffering, 83: perfection in knowledge, 84: society of, and communion with, exalted beings and with God, 85: eternal progress in blessedness, 86.
- Hill, Rev. Rowland,—Life of, 426-445: his ancestry and family, early conversion, etc. 427: a lay preacher, 428: ordination and success in the ministry, 429, 430: his personal appearance, characteristics as a preacher, peculiarities,

- vis comica*, anecdotes of, 431--439; his views of preaching, 438; character as a pastor, 441; as an author, 443.
- Holiness,—power of in the christian ministry, 542; its influence on the intellect, 547; produces independence of thinking and investigation; also a sober and practical estimate of things, 549; prompts to earnest and humble inquiry, 550; calls forth the active powers, 552; enlarges usefulness of ministers, 556; increase of, necessary in the present divided state of the churches, 557.
- Honor, law of,—no proper rule of human conduct, 414.
- Ignorance,—evils of, 639.
- Incompatibility,—the idea of the cannot of the scriptures, 148, 149.
- Influence of the christian religion on poetry, 196--208.
- Insolvency,—Dymond's views on, obligation of bankrupts to pay their debts, how extensive, 416.
- Intemperance,—habits of, how formed, 371; their strength, 379; wretchedness produced by, 607, 608.
- James, Rev. J. A.—his commendation of American temperance principles, 50, 51.
- Jefferson, Thomas,—his charges against the Presbyterian clergy, 558; his opinion on the use of ardent spirit, by candidates for public office, 595.
- Kant,—Dugald Stewart's opinion of his writings, 609.
- Knowledge,—progress of during the Reformation, 181--183; diffusion of, a means of the general improvement of society, 638.
- La Flechère,—anecdote of, 422.
- Lane Seminary,—Anti-Slavery Society in, their definition of immediate emancipation, etc. 536.
- Language,—study of, here and abroad, 397.
- Liberty, civil and religious, endangered by Popery, 184; the drunkard's, what, 596.
- License system for the sale of ardent spirit, ought to be abolished, 603, 604.
- Livingston, Rev. Gilbert R., D. D.—Sketch of his Life and Character, 187--195; ancestry, life and labors, 188, 189; his letters to his church and others, from his death-bed, extracts, 191; character, 193.
- Luther,—influence of his mind on the world, 186.
- Malign Emotions,—rise and progress of, 121--126.
- Religion characterized, 129.
- Manly Piety,—in its principles, 267; evinced in—manly estimates; of both worlds, 269; of true wisdom, 272; of salvation, 276; manly faith in Providence, 278; manly honesty in prayer, 282; manly views of divine influence, 286.
- Means of our country for promoting the highest interests of mankind, 36--53.
- Mechanism and Vital Endowments of the Hand,—evidence of design, 54--73.
- Metaphysics,—present state of, 609; the science fluctuating, 608; causes of this, 611; Mr. Withington's definition of, 612; note.
- Mind,—dependent on the brain, 506.
- Miriam, a Jewish Tale, 160--168.
- Missionaries and Ministers, needed at the West,—character and qualifications, 520--522.
- Mitchell, Rev. W.—his Young Christian's Guide, 141.
- Moral Science and Morality,—the principles of, Dymond's Essay upon, 406.
- Moral Science, as a Branch of Academical Education, 561; its importance, mode of instruction, influence, etc. 560--580.
- More, Mrs. Hannah,—Memoirs of the Life and Correspondence of, 655--672.
- Music, Sacred,—practical importance of, 223.
- Neology, German, 509.
- Norton, Prof.—his neglect to answer the point urged upon him, 263.
- Onderdonk, Rev. Dr.—his tract on Episcopacy, 1; outline of his argument, 5--7; examined and refuted, 10--30.
- Ordination,—not the peculiar and distinctive work of the apostles, 10--15.
- Presbyterian,—Rev. Luther Hart's Tract upon, 486.
- Paley,—his views of expediency opposed, 410; his law of honor deserves severe rebuke, 414.
- Parey, Ambrose,—his account of the salamander, 621; note.

- Phelps, Rev. Amos A.—Lectures on Slavery, 333; definition of slavery, objection, 337; meaning of emancipation, not complete, 338, 339.
- Phrenology, 497; leading and fundamental principles, 499; examined, 502-509, 525-534; uncertain in its application, or false in its details, 535; difficulties in determining the organs of the brain, 536, 537; phrenological classification of the faculties will not bear a close examination, 538-540; other objections, 540, 541.
- Poetry,—Influence of the Christian Religion upon, 196-208.
- Popery,—its spread in this country ought to be counteracted, 169-171; its principles destructive of civil and religious liberty, 184; its despotism may be overthrown by the power of truth, 185.
- Prayer, efficacious,—Meaning of, 253; objections considered, 253-256; manner and style, 256, 257; manly honesty in prayer, 282.
- Property,—right of, 415; danger of inequality in, etc., 419.
- Rauch, Dr. F. A.—his work on German Neology, 509.
- Reason,—or common sense, an infallible guide in subjects on which it is competent to decide, not otherwise, 260.
- meaning of, in Coleridge's philosophy, 624.
- Reformation,—Spirit and Influence of,—on the condition of Europe; on the church, 177; on states, internal, 178; and external, 180; on the progress of knowledge, 181-183.
- Regeneration,—nature, etc., 149-151.
- Report,—of the Board of Visitors, U. S. Military Academy, 345. Seventh,—of the American Temperance Society, 593.
- Sabbath,—public violation of the, at the U. S. Military Academy, 365; and in the last war, 680; in New-York and other cities, 585, 586; by professing christians, 588; causes of increasing profanation, 581-584; the evil great in extent, and oppressive, 585-587; remedy, 588.
- Selfishness,—an inordinate love of self, 144; the essence of all sin, 146.
- Slavery,—Abolition of, 332; Rev. Amos A. Phelps' definition, 338.
- Society,—General Improvement of, 632: various schemes considered, 635; the diffusion of knowledge, 638.
- Son,—Biblical use of the word, 156-159.
- Speculation,—its dangers, and its advantages, 400-405; its proper objects, 405.
- Spirit and Influence of the Reformation, Villers' Essay on, 169-187.
- Spiritual Songs for Social Worship, 208-226.
- Spurzheim,—his views of the brain and its organs, 528.
- Standard of right and wrong; the will of God, how understood, 408.
- Study,—objects of two-fold, acquisition of knowledge, and mental discipline, 398.
- Temperance,—progress in this country, 49, 50: 594-600; accusations against its advocates, 595; means of further promoting the cause, 601-609.
- Timothy not an apostle, 19, 20; nor a diocesan bishop, 21, 23.
- Titus not an apostle, or diocesan bishop, 25, 26.
- Traffic in ardent spirit, ought to be a penal offense, 606, 608.
- Trinity,—Rev. H. Winslow's discourse on the, 259; statements of the doctrine, 261, 262.
- Unitarians,—their treatment of the bible, 264; their reasoning in the Trinitarian controversy a petitio principii, 259, 564; cannot be recognized as believers in the bible, 265-267.
- Unitarian Controversy,—true course in conducting it, 261.
- Villers' Prof., Essay on the Reformation, 169; account of him, 172.
- Village Dialogues, Rowland Hill's; their great popularity, 443.
- Voice,—improved by singing, 224.
- War,—its unjustifiableness, reasons of, 423.
- West,—Claims of the, 513-424; the field of eastern effort, mode, etc. 519, 520.
- Whitefield, Rev. George,—Memoir of, 88-118; early life, conversion, 91, 92; feelings before and at ordination, 95, 96; his labors and success, 96-103; death and funeral, 104-106; character and preaching, 107-118.
- Winslow, Rev. H.—his discourse on the Trinity, 259.
- Withington, Rev. Leonard,—present state of metaphysics, and Coleridge, 609.
- Young Christian's Guide, W. Mitchell's, 141-156.
- Zoology,—Cuvier's system of, 297.